

GROUP: Instructions to Contributors

1. Queries about a proposed submission are welcome. Make them to the editor, Dominick Grundy, Ph.D., email Grundyd4@earthlink.net or phone at 212-8746929. Send queries about reviews to the reviews editor, Barbara Cohn, Ph.D., email Brcohn@earthlink.net.
2. Send submitted articles electronically as Word documents (.doc or .docx or .rtf format). They should be in English and checked for content and style, including correct grammar, syntax and spelling. Follow APA format throughout. Manuscripts not compliant with instructions will be returned to the author for adjustment and resubmission. If an article is accepted, page proofs will be sent to the author for proofreading and checking.
3. Submission of a manuscript to GROUP is considered to be representation that it is the work of the author(s) on the title page, that it has not been published already, wholly or in part, and is not under consideration for publication elsewhere. A statement transferring copyright from the authors (or their employers if they hold the copyright) to the Eastern Group Psychotherapy Society will be required before manuscripts are accepted for publication.
4. If case material is used, it is the writer's responsibility to protect patient confidentiality. Ensure that either the relevant content has been responsibly discussed with patients and/or identifying information has been removed.
5. Typical manuscript format is double-spaced with 1.25-inch margins left and right, and 1-inch top and bottom; typical manuscript length is 25 pages. Typical font size is 12 pt. Please number the pages consecutively. Include a running head at the top right of each page.
6. The title page should include the author's (or authors') name(s) and affiliation, if any, the mailing address, email address and phone number of the author designated to review proofs from the publisher. In a footnote to the authors' names on the first page of the article, repeat the affiliation and address for reader correspondence. After this, please avoid footnotes.
7. An abstract of no more than 100 words should appear at the beginning of an article. List up to 6 keywords (for web searches) after the abstract.
8. Give references to relevant published work in the text in abbreviated form e.g., (Jones, 2002) or (Moskowitz, 1978; Nagel, 1961). In-text references should appear in full once in the reference list at the end of the article (see some examples below).
9. Book: Benjamin, J. (1988). The bonds of love. New York: Pantheon.
10. Article: Sandler, J. (1969). Toward a basic psychoanalytic model. International Journal of Psycho-Analysis, 50, 79-90.

11. Article in an edited work: Gopnik, A. & Wellman, H. (1994). The “theory theory”. In L. Hirschfield & S. Gelman (Eds.), Domain specificity in culture and cognition (pp. 257-293). New York: Cambridge University Press.
12. No specified author: Boston Change Process Study Group. (2008). Forms of relational meaning: Issues in the relations between the implicit and verbal-reflective domains. Psychoanalytic Dialogues, 18, 843-860.
13. Review APA Publication Manual (6th edition) for further details, or consult a reputable writing handbook with a section on APA documentation. Purdue University has an online APA style and formatting guide: <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/>.
14. Number illustrations with consecutive Arabic numerals, with captions on a separate sheet. Number tables with Roman numerals and refer to them by number in the text.
15. Reprints are available to authors, and order forms with price schedule will be sent with page proofs.
